Zxing barcode scanner example. Zxing scanner example. Android zxing barcode scanner example. How do i scan a barcode with an android phone. Zxing barcode example.

The ZXing project provides a standalone barcode reader application which — via Android's intent mechanism — can be called by other applications who wish to integrate barcode scanning. The easiest way to do this is to call the ZXing SCAN Intent from your application, like this: `public Button.OnClickListener mScan = new Button.OnClickListener() { public void onClick(View v) { Intent intent = new Intent("com.google.zxing.client.android.SCAN"); intent.putExtra("SCAN_MODE", "QR_CODE_MODE"); startActivityForResult(intent, 0); } }; public void onActivityResult(int requestCode, int resultCode, Intent intent) { if (requestCode == 0) { if (resultCode == RESULT_OK) { String contents = intent.getStringExtra("SCAN_RESULT"); String format = intent.getStringExtra("SCAN_RESULT_FORMAT"); // Handle successful scan } else if (resultCode == RESULT_CANCELED) { // Handle cancel } } } Pressing the button linked to mScan would launch directly into the ZXing barcode scanner screen (or crash if ZXing isn't installed). Once a barcode has been recognised, you'll receive the result in your Activity, here in the contents variable. To avoid the crashing and simplify things for you, ZXing have provided a utility class which you could integrate into your application to make the installation of ZXing smoother, by redirecting the user to the Android Market if they don't have it installed already. Finally, if you want to integrate barcode scanning directly into your application without relying on having the separate ZXing application installed, well then it's an open source project and you can do so! :) Edit: Somebody edited this guide into this answer (it sounds a bit odd, I can't vouch as to its accuracy, and I'm not sure why they're using Eclipse in 2015); Step by step to setup zxing 3.2.1 in eclipse Download zxing-master.zip from " Unzip zxing-master.zip, Use eclipse to import "android" project in zxing-master Download core-3.2.1.jar from " Create "libs" folder in "android" project and paste cor-3.2.1.jar into the libs folder Click on project: choose "properties" -> "Java Compiler" to change level to 1.7. Then click on "Android" change "Project build target" to android 4.4.2+, because using 1.7 requires compiling with Android 4.4 If "CameraConfigurationUtils.java" don't exist in "zxing-master/android/app/src/main/java/com/google/zxing/client/android/camera". You can copy it from "zxing-master/android-core/src/main/java/com/google/zxing/client/android/camera" and paste to your project. Clean and build project. If your project show error about "switch - case", you should change them to "if - else". Completed. Clean and build project. You can click on "Properties" > "Android" > click on "Is Libraries" to use for your project. How to call Zxing barcode scanner from you application using Intent? The ZXing project provides a standalone barcode reader application using Android's intent mechanism, can be called by other applications who wish to integrate barcode scanning. If you want to integrate barcode scanning directly into your application without relying on having the separate ZXing application installed, then you can do so! It's an open source project and the code is available for free and can be downloaded at are going to add the whole ZXing project core to your app and modify as you wish. This way your app will no longer require ZXing app exist in client device. ZXing uses phone or tablet camera to scan barcodes, QR codes or multi-format 1D/2D barcodes. So the scan result highly depends on the camera quality and resolution. ZXing has relatively fast processing speed. More importantly, it is an open source projectso you can do whatever changes you like to it!`
